Brach Eichler's interdisciplinary insurance industry practice handles complex corporate, M&A transactional, regulatory, and litigation matters in all sectors of the insurance industry. We handle insurance coverage disputes involving property and casualty, life, and reinsurance matters. We also advise on related areas of law, such as tax, antitrust, SEC, market-conduct, and internal investigation issues, including international investigations.

We have worked successfully with federal and state regulators nationwide on many diverse matters ranging from routine insurance regulatory problems to multi-state M&A transactions, and complex market-conduct examinations.

We help insurers, and producers successfully operate in a highly regulated, competitive and always changing industry. We provide counsel to the insurance industry in regulatory and litigation matters, including:

- Broker malpractice/producer negligence
- Business agreements
- Corporate and regulatory compliance
- Disability insurance
- Due diligence
- Fraud and conversion
- General agency and claims administration agreements
- Insolvency
- Licensing and bad faith
- Liquidation
- Litigation
- Program business

Our experienced attorneys offer a depth of sophisticated insurance experience unusual in a small firm environment. We provide comprehensive counseling, litigation, arbitration, and transactional services to insurance companies, reinsurers, general agents, and third-party claims administrators. Insurance and reinsurance companies rely on our experienced attorneys to protect their interests.
