Brach Eichler LLC is pleased to announce a new partnership with the New Jersey Psychiatric Association (NJPA), making NJPA the eighth major New Jersey physician specialty society represented by the firm. This collaboration further reinforces Brach Eichler's commitment to supporting professional healthcare organizations and the practitioners they serve. Through this partnership, NJPA members will gain access to legal guidance and practical resources designed to support their work and help them address the operational, regulatory, and business demands facing psychiatric practices today.

"Our attorneys understand the pressures providers face today, from contract negotiations and practice management challenges to compliance obligations and an evolving regulatory landscape," said John D. Fanburg, Managing Member and Chair of Brach Eichler's Healthcare Law practice. "We are proud to support NJPA and its members through educational programming, strategic counsel, and legal resources that help address both day-to-day legal issues and long-term practice priorities."

"Psychiatrists play a critical role in New Jersey's healthcare system, and they are doing so in an increasingly complex legal and regulatory environment," said Caroline J. Patterson, Member and Vice Chair of Brach Eichler's Healthcare Law practice. We are pleased to work with NJPA to help its members stay informed, anticipate challenges, and continue focusing on the patients and communities they serve."
