

John D. Fanburg, Cannabis Practice Co-Chair is quoted in NJBIZ's article, "ATCs cleared to sell adult-use cannabis as soon as next month"

Read the entire article now on NJBiz.com

A couple of excerpts from the article:

John Fanburg, who co-chairs the cannabis practice at Brach Eichler in Roseland, said that the opening of the adult-use market is good news, noting that "cannabis prohibition is finally coming to an end."

"Currently, the black market controls 100% of adult recreational cannabis sales. This will bring the purchase and sale into the open, outside of the black market, in a safe and quality-controlled market. It's not just about the tax revenue; it is about social justice and safety," Fanburg said.