

Life or death decisions and no feedback: New study highlights the value of patient tracking, especially in the ER