Rosaria (Rose) Suriano Brach Eichler LLC

An experienced business litigation attorney representing large and mid-sized companies, Rosaria (Rose) Suriano is a trailblazer. To her clients, she brings over 28 years of trial and appellate court experience in both state and federal courts across the country. To her business colleagues, she has succeeded in a field where few women dominate.

Throughout her career, Rose has worked for several of the state's most prominent law firms. She handles complex contract and business matters, including partnership/shareholder disputes, non-compete agreement matters, claims involving confidential and proprietary information and other business disputes. She also handles construction and real estate matters.

A true leader, Rose is a member of several organizations and the recipient of many honors and awards. In addition to being named a Top 25 Leading Women

Entrepreneur in NJ, she was recognized by NJBIZ Magazine as a "Best 50 Women in Business in NJ" in 2011. Rose was also named to the NJ Super Lawyers list in 2015, 2016 and 2017 and is rated AV Preeminent by Martindale-Hubbell. In May, Rose was elected to serve as director of the NJSBA Business Law Section for a three-year term. She has lectured on many business law topics and has served on panels for the Institute of Continuing Legal Education. A Seton Hall Law School graduate, Rose also held several prestigious clerkships.

Rose strives to help her clients avoid litigation, and when unavoidable, she develops winning strategies. Her commitment goes well beyond handling a lawsuit; she focuses on her clients' long-term goals and business interests. "An opportunity should never be ignored — seize it and have the confidence and determination to turn it into a success."
